“ Everly I am saddened to learn that your husband had passed away. I will continue to treasure the 3D horseshoe cross with the red heart that he made. I had purchased it for dad several years ago. We were both impressed at how he transformed the horseshoes into such an inspiring work of art. Your husband was very gifted and he will live on not only in your memories but also through his art. It will continue to inspire you and those lucky enough to own it!

“ I'm so sorry Everly and Tristan. I thought Ricky was hilarious, except when he wanted to argue about where dinosaurs came from.(Then he'd laugh because he'd finally get me riled up) So many funny stories! My heart goes out to you all!
